Escaping the Asylum.

A peculiar case is reported from Sullivan County. Two Monticello doctors were called upon to examine a citizen a to his sanity, his friends averring that he said that the best place for some time to come for the patient would be the Middletown Insane Asplum. While the examination was in progress in one of the doctor's offices, a resident of an adjoin-ing village stepped in to obtain a pre-scription for some trifling allment. In making out the commitment papers the examiners of the insane patient got the names mixed, the certificate of insanity being made out in the name of the man who was all right mentally.

The papers were given to the officers, and they proceeded to look up "their man," he in the meantime having coolly realized to the determinant. walked out of the doctor's office. He met the officers on the street and passed met ind oliners on the street and passed a joke with them about the hot wave, remarking that he thought he would take a trip to Coney Island, and regretted that the official duties of the officers presented them from going along. After an hour's search the officers found the gentlemen whose name had been put in the certificate of insunity through mistake, and they told him they wanted him to take a walk and a "nice ride." Fearing that they were buneo men or some of the sharpers following in the wake of John J. O'Brien's circus, which is making the tour of the river counties on the west side of the Hudson, he retused to have anything to do with them. Finally the officers showed the asylum papers, and suggested that the best way would be to go along quietly. The "patient" protested vehemently that a mistake had been made, and the officers were only partially convinced that a blunder had been perpetrated, when a Port Jurvis gentleman camp along and tried to convince them of the fact. A hurried trip was made to the doctor's office, where profuse apologies were tendered to the Sullivan County farmer, who had narrowly oscaped being locked up in the asylum. The others had theard just such stories as his before? The lunate meanwhile made the most of his time, but instead of going to New York, on his way to the seashere, he took an opposite direction. The officers succeeded in catching him -Kingston

-A lady not feeling as well as she liked, went to consult a physician. "Well," said the doctor, after looking at her tongue, feeling her pulse, and asking her sundry questions, "I should advise you—yes, I should advise you—ahem!—to get married." "Are you single, Doctor?" inquired the fair patient, with a significant yet modest smile. "I am, my dear lady, but is not etiquette, you know, for physicians to take the physic they prescribe."

"Couldn't you lind room enough for yourself on that beach, without pushing that little boy off?" asked the teacher of the bad boy of the school. "I didn't want any room for myself," was the reply. "I wasn't crowded at all. "Then why did you push him off?" "To give him more room. He was the boy who was crowded; so I pushed him off to give him plenty of room. There is a great deal more room off the bench than there is on it." It was smart, but the offender was sent out to cut a switch, all the same.—N. Y. Sun.

A Wakeman Who Was Not a Wide-Awakeman. DAYTON, O., November 3.-Engeue Wakeman, of New York, well-known in this city, arrived here on Saturday night with a man who registered at the Becket House as H. Spegel, New York. Wakeman met him on a train several months ago, and after the two had exchanged ago, and after the cards they engaged in a friendly conversa-tion, in the course of which Wakeman spoke particularly of a greatfriend of his,

a hotel-keeper in New York, and of his relations with him. Stegel is a contidence man, and he sought out the hotel-keeper in New York, and succeeded in getting him and succeeded in getting into to cash a forged draft for $2,43t by telling him he was a particular friend of Wakeman. Wakeman was informed of the matter at once, and Saturday last caught processing the saturday last caught spegel on a train coming to Dayton. Spegel acknowledged his guilt, and paid Wakeman $50, with a promise of the balance the next day. During the night, however, Spegel made his escape from the hotel, and has not been heard from since. Wakeman started in pursuit, but returned without finding him. Drunken Duck Hunters QUINCY, ILL. November 3 .- A party of four young men left this city Sunday morning to go up the river, on a duck hunt. They went in a skiff and took along lots of whisky to keep themselves wa.m. When up the river several miles, they became so drunk that they upset the boat and plunged themselves into cold water. One of themswam ashore and reported that the other three had perished, but it is known this morning that his comrades miraculously caught on to driftwood, and, after fearful struggles, succeeded in effecting a land-ing, in a terribly exhausted condition. Their guns and equipments were lost. THE TROUBLE AT WINNIPUG.

Winnifel, Man., November 3.—Fearing further trouble Saturday night the Government ordered the military to guard the city, and accordingly the Nineteenth Infantry, a troop of cavalry and a battery of field pieces paraded the streets all pight and reported to the guard at the all night and reported to the guard at the Government buildings. Every precaution was taken by the Government, valuable documents and papers of record being moved and books placed in yaults. Alorney-General Miller took refuge at the mounted police barracks. There was no demonstration, as 2,000 Canadian Pacific Railway employes who were expected to lead the van were ordered back to work and had to comply. There is much talk of another demonstration to-night, as the Government has not given an intimation of what course it will adopt. Is He Insane?

BROOKLYN, N. Y., November 3 .- Return was made to-day to a writ of habeas orpus compelling the production of Charles E. Richards, son of ex-Mayor Richards, of Philadelphia. Richards has been confined in Dr. Barstow's private mad-house at Elushing, L. L., since 1874. Counselor Leonard, who appeared for kickards, claimed that he was unjustly conflued. Connselor Bankstover read an afficiavit in which it was stated that Richirds is of unsound friind, and was so ad judged in 1874, and was placed in the asylum at the request of his brothers, and with the concurrence of his family In 1878 he was again adjudged a lunatie by Judge Armstrong, of Queens County, and the doctor was of opinion that he would always be a lunatic. Counselor Leonard asserted that he was sane, and when he applied to the asylum to see him he was denied admit-tance. Evidence in the case will be taken Thursday.

the country. In Decatur the polls at the five districts opened promptly at eight o'clook, and will close at seven this evening. Unusually large crowds of workers were on duty all day, and though it was muddy, the sun shone forth at intervals, the temperature was comfortable, and it was not at all disagreeable to stand about and furnish voters with tickets. There was more or less challenging by both parties at the polls, but there was no disturbance from this cause. THE new play, "A Wife's Honor," next Monday night. This play is now on the boards at the St. Louis Standard theatre. The Globe-Democrat says of the drama: "It has some remarkably pleasing points, with many good comedy flashes. At the basis of the action are the same old conditions essential to the construction of a play which appeals to the human heart. In the beginning a man is sent to prison for 12 years, and while be is in penal servitude the principal incidents of the drama occur, although he is released in time to make things lively for the archvillain. THEFIRE DEPARTMENT, Ald, and Chief Wayne, chairman of the fire department, submitted the following

The fire department committee would recommend that four men be employed at hose house No. 1, to take charge of the hose wagen which is to be placed there upon its arrival. This will make a force of seven paid men at this hose house, and would recommend that the salary of these men he placed at fifty dollars per mouth, Nos. 2 and 3 have houses, each, have one paid watchmen. Would recommend that the salary of these two men remain at thirty-five dollars per month

Would recommend that the chief enploy six men to organize as a hose company for hose house No. 2, and pay them a salary of six dollars per month, or one dollar each, they to report promptly at all fires for duty. Also, that a hook and ladder company of ten men be employed for hose house No. 3, to receive a salary of ten dollars per mouth, or one dollar duty.

Would further recommend the purchase of a patent jimmy for prying open doors, thus enabling the firemen to effect an entrance into a building without injury to large plate glass doors, etc.
Also advise the immediate purchase of proper bedding for the police department. It was moved that the suggestions be adopted; whereupon there was a general discussion, the more serious objection service performed, as the council might pay the men for each fire attended. Ald. Roberts offered an amendment that

W. M. Stanley is in the city. He voted o-day in the second ward.

J. H. McCoy, of the pension bureau, is at his home in Oakley to-day, where he voted the Republican ticket. Major J. H. Smith got home Sunday from the east and south. He voted the straight Republican ticket to-day. His leave of absence has been extended to

W. H. Linn had the misfortune to dis locate an arm on Sunday by an accidental fall at his home. The injury gives him considerable pain. He will be about in a few days.

J. E. Brooks, of the "Wife's Honor" company, arrived in the city to-day. The play, which is of the "Othello" type, will be given at the opera house next Monday night the 18th George W. Kraft stepped high last evening and felt like casting more than one Republican vote at the polls to-day.

It was yesterday afternoon that a new baby boy came to his home, and that's why George is happy to-day. W. W. Kelly, formerly business man-ager for Charlotte Thompson, is now representing Grace Hawthorne, who is soon to appear here. In his card Kelly says "She is no empress, no countess, no duchess. Her only misfortune lies in the fact of her having been born in America—consequently she will be obliged to speak English without a dialect."

At Eim Grove, 1½ miles west of Decatur, Ill., on Oct. 26, 1884, of typhoid malarial fever, JANET HASTIE, wife of George Smith, aged 66 years and 7 months.

The deceased was born in Dumfries Scotland, and was united in marriage to George Smith by Rev. Oviatt on May 20, 1859, in Decatur, Ill. Aunt Janet we one of the noble women of earth; to know her was to love her. She embraced the Christian religion in Scotland while very young, lived her profession through life and died in the triumphs of faith. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Charles Lewis. Her funeral was preached by Rev. O. B. Huston, from the text: "There will be no night there," Rev. 21:25, to a large audience of friends. She was interred in Boiling Springs cemetery.

Best Goods are Always Put in Small

The old proverb is certainly true in the case of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are little, sugar-wrapped parcels, scarcely larger than mustard seeds, containing as much cathartic pow er as is done up in the biggest, most repulsive-looking pill. Unlike the big pills, however, they are mild and pleasant n their operation—do not produce griping pains, nor render the bowels costive

Ar last! at last! there is to be a wide orick walk on the east side of North Maio street, between Prairie and William streets. It's a little late, but let the good work go on. Lay a new walk on the west side of the same street, between North and William streets. Along that wretched excuse for a walk it would be an easy matter for a soher man to break his neck.

MARRIED.

In Lafayette, Ind., on October 29, 1884, by Rev. W. M. Betl, Mr. WILL F. NEV-INS, of Decatur, Ill., and MISS JULIA E. Mr. and Mrs. Nevins have arrived in Decatur and are now "at home" to friends at 848 East Prairie street. Mr. N. is an engineer at the Wabash shops.

Early History of Balleens. In all ages men have aspired to fly, but it is a very remarkable fact that among all the wenderful modern invenamong all the wonderful modern inventions and improvements very little progress has been made in the art of navigating the air.

The story of the first aeronauts, Dadalus and his son Icarus, shows that the ancients endeavored to travel like the birds, and hoped to succeed, for Icarus seared so near the sun that the way with soared so near the sun that the wax with which he had fastened his wings to his shoulders melted and he fell, like Lucifer, headlong into a deep pool. Mother Shipton in her famous prophecy says: "In the air men shall be seen In white, in back, in green." We leave the interpretation of the prophecy to others, but suppose it alndes to balloons.

The earliest conveyance for sailing in The earliest conveyance for sating in the air was made by Francis Lana, a Jesuit, in the early part of the seventeenth century; there is no very clear description of it extant. Several years after a Frenchman, named Retif de la Bretonne, constructed an apparatus for lating in the air consisting of two large. bretonne, constructed an apparatus for lifying in the air, consisting of two large wings, fitting to the shoulders, and a sort of "gingham umbrella" over the head. History saith not whether the aspiring de la Bretonne ever broke any hones traine his apparatus, it is thought bones trying his apparatus; it is thought he deputed some one else to make trial of his invention, which appears to have rapidly fallen into disuse, if ever used at Two brothers, named Montgolfier, were the first to construct balloons such as are now in use, and the first aerial voyage was performed successfully from the gardens of La Muette near Paris. In 1782 Joseph Montgolier made little paper balloous and sent them up as an experiment, and the following year he and his brother constructed a very large and strong balloon filled with smoke. This ascended to a considerable height and traveled nearly two miles before it landed safely. These experiments were made at a little town named Annonay. The savans of Paris were anx-tious to test the new invention, and ap-pointed a committee to inquire into it. Several persons attempted to rival the Montgoliers, and a certain Professor

Charles, aided by the funds of some tich friends, made a balloon of strips of silk, varnished over and filled it with hydrogen gas, just then discovered.
The Champ de Mars was the place appointed for setting off the balloon, where, amidst a salvo of artiflery and the shouts of a vast crowd of spectators, it started on its ascent. Alas! before it reached a great height the gas exploded, and Professor Charles only escaped in-jury by his foresight in not having em-barked in his invention. In 1783 the first successful aeronautic expedition was made by a man named Roviers and the Marquis d'Arlandes. Their balloon was a very elaborate one and inflated with heated air instead of hydrogen gas. Thousands of people gazed at the grace-ful structure as it seared above the cle-igant city of Paris, over which it made a complete circuit. Among the lookers

Franklin. For months after this France ran riot in balloous, and all sorts of aerial voyages were indulged in all over the country. The Due de Chartres and the notorious Philip d'Egalite made a journey in in halloon of over one hundred and thirty lmiles in five hours. It was afterward remarked that it was a pity d'Egalite had not broken his neck and saved his honor. In 1802 a man named Robert-son, of Vienna, built a wonderful machine, that he called the 'Minerya, for navigating the air. It somewhat resembled a ferry boat with a balloon attached. The "Minerva" had every kind of contrivance for air navigation and was to carry one hundred and lifty thousand pounds. It was destined to make a tour of the world, but, like many another scheme, it never ful-filled its destiny. It was so combersome that it would have been about as easy to raiso a stone church. In 1803 Nadar constructed a large balloon called the "Geant," which made a voyage from Paris to Hanover. The From $15 to $12 per set.

Cleant" had a car of wicker work, full ted out comfortably to hold nine persons. It soared over the hills of France, the towns of Belgium and the level green of Holland, intersected with its network of water ways How charming it must have been to look down from the clouds on this varied scenery "But all things lovely fade!" After a shop, no tinvest corner of day and night of fair sailing there came a fearful descent. The voxagers were a fearful descent. The voyagers were dashed against rocks, houses and trees, and were finally rescued alive, but with broken bones and bruised bodies.

The greatest use balloons have ever been put to has been in war time in France and in the Civil War in the United States. The first time they were used was in the battle of Fleurus in 1794, when they were managed like a kite, and scattered destruction success-

The Generals of the Army of the Potomac were able to look down on Rich-mond by and of balloons long before it surrendered. Balloons were also used for carrying dispatches.

In the late siege of Paris they were of considerable service. Gambetta made a trip in one from the Tutleries to Tours.

So far the most skillful aeronauts have failed to do very much in navigating the air, and the machines are almost always heavier than the air, or, if raised successfully, the current changes and they come to grinf. Aerostation has not kept pace with other sciences and is far more difficult to cope with, though scientists believe it will one day be brought to a greater state of perfection "Argosics, with ungle sails," filling the cerulcan vault above us, will be a familiar spectacle.—Philadelphia

-A sensational French criminal case A sensational French erithmat ease has recently been reported in the newspapers, which shows the sense of the dog in a new light. The nurderers denied their guilt, and the dog, who had seen the crime committed, was next produced. It had been found howling beside the corpse of its mistress. When the assassing were confronted with the poor brute it got into a corner, bristled up and expressed violent animosity.
Its attitude led the murderers to confes and recriminate each other, and the guillotine will be the linis of the story.

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. E. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa. writes: "I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on lungs, and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Con-sumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 pounds." Call at Swearingen & Hubbard's drug store and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all Lung Diseases. Large bottles $1.00.

"Chappies" in Natty Garb. Fashionable tailors have been cudgeling their heads for several months to invent some new cut or kind of garment to satisfy the stylish young chaps who always want the latest out in the way of clothes. But the poor goosesliders have got the matter of dress down so fine that they do not see how they can improve on present styles, and they are afraid to make them worse lest they draw down the ire of their customers. However, there are some new wrinkles and they were given to a Journal man by a Broadway tailor between customers.

"Some points on togs, ch? Well, esome points on logs, on well-let's see. The four-button entaway is still the favorite morning coat for young men, and when made of a good diagonal or small, dark-figured goods, makes a dressy suit. The coat is out to open a little lower this year and have wider lapels and collars. They are fin-ished with braid and do not have flaps unless of fancy plaid goods. Some few fancy a one-button cutaway, and these are usually made of dark English goods and can be worn with a white vest if one fancies it."
"How about frocks?"

"Oh, we make a good many for old men or young with new responsibilities who have just got married, you know. Gives them a certain dignity. Steelgray, black and blue cloths are most ned, though some have such poor taste as to make them of tancy plaid cheviots. However, the collars are a little wider and roll about seven inches."
"Are sack costs much worn?" "Yes, a good deal by youths and men-about fifty, who think they look younger in them. Single-breasted sacks have live buttons and are ent away in a curve from the lower button, the neck being lent lower than last year. A neat single-breasted sack has four buttons and is cut away abruptly from the lower button. Those made of corkscrew cloth with fancy pants make a very natty sut. P inted lapels are put on the double-breasted sacks, the buttons being tour and one-halt mehes from the Of course the pockets have flaps. The length of sacks is medium, just hiding the seat of the trousers."

"Are colored dress-suits coming to stay?" Eyes, there's quite a call from young fellows who are tired of the regulation black. But the majority will wear ldack all the same. A very dark winecolor or dark blue makes a good dresssuit, some even fancy a bottle-green. They are cut with more graceful curving lines than tormerly and do not open quite so wide 22

"How about vests and trousers?" "Single-breasted vests and notehed collars are the rule, cut square at the bottom, with six buttons. Some fancy goods are made with double breasts with or without collars. Pants are enti-straight on the inside seam and curving on the outside and with no spring at the bottom, and the legs at closer than before. Cheeks, broken cheeks and plaids of all sizes are worn, and a few still fancy a stripe pattern."-N Y. Journal.
